

□□□

□□□

000000000000000000000000000000000000

0 .0 . 2553

Roles of Administration with the Development of Information Technology

A Dissertation Submitted in Partial Fulfillment of the Requirements for the Doctor of Public Administration

Faculty of Liberal Arts

Kirk University

2010

000000000000000000
00

000

00000000000000

000000000000 000000000000

00000000/ 000/000000000000
000000000000000000

00000000000000000000000000000000/ 000000000000/

000

0000000000000000 00.000000000000000000000000000000000000

000000000000

2552

This research entitled “Roles of Administration with the Development of Information Technology” aims to 1) study the development of Information Technology in five areas of rapid the convenience, the accuracy, decision making and safety
2) study the role of management in terms of the strategy planning, development system, the monitoring system, development personnel and the aware of customer services and 3) study the relationship between variables of the role of administrators on the development Information Technology which is related to the ability of the organization in terms of the performance of staff, the flexibility of information systems, Management and Budget.

This Research uses survey together with qualitative research. And the study Role s of Administration with the Development of Information Technology showed that 1) the development of Information Technology in five areas of rapid the convenience, the accuracy, decision making and safety had have develop go together in a high level
2) the role of information technology management and development as a whole is in a high level. When considering the individual aspects show that the role of management in terms of the strategy planning, development system, the monitoring system, development personnel and the aware of customer services are in the most of high level. 3) Level of the capacity of organization in management had have the relationship between variables of the role of administrators on the development Information Technology.

Besides, the result of the study reflects that by combining the concept of Tin Prachayapluth is Develop Management (2528) and the result of Organization’s efficiency have a relationship of the same reasoning with the Leadership concept of Rangson Prasertsri (2551).